

Snooker League 2019 Grand Final

Cannington Bandits Prevail Against the Odds

2019 Snooker League Champions - Cannington Bandits (L to R) Bob the bulldog, Kishin, Daniel and John

The Cannington Bandits have taken out this year's championship with an inspiring win against the Northbridge Jokers. The Bandits had to overcome both the top ranked Jokers and the fact that circumstances found them having to play a man short. All of the Bandits had winning nights (except Bob who lost all his frames). The match went to a draw with young Daniel King winning the playoff in heroic fashion just as he had done in the previous week's preliminary final. The final also featured the shortest frame in the League's history - four shots.

The top 4 teams and many individual high breakers shared in this year's $2,590 in prizemoney. Nee Chua, Ben Keen and Barry Saxon took out the gold, silver and bronze individual prizes while Peter McCullagh and Steve Saxon shared the top break prize with impressive 97s.
